John Evans

JOHNS EVANS, governor of Colorado, was before coming to the state, very influential in Chicago as a physician. In 1853, Dr. Evans advocated the founding of Northwestern University, and the selection of its location was made in Evanston, which was so named in his honor.

In 1862 he accepted the position of governor of Colorado. He became a leader of men. In education, morals, railroads, finance, and politics, in Colorado, he was an empire builder. He retired as governor in 1865 and the same year was elected U. S. senator from Colorado. But Governor Evans never held office because both bills were vetoed, and he was not permitted to take his seat in the Senate.

Governor Evans was among the leaders of the Methodist Episcopal church and was one of the founders of the University of Denver.

TO THE STUDENTS OF COLORADO COLLEGE:

The Pikes Peak Nugget seeks to preserve, from year to year, a faithful representation of each passing phase of college life, and to record in permanent form the names and interests of those who for a time made this place their home. This year—as in all other years—Colorado College says to its friends, its visitors, its sons and daughters:

“May those we welcome come again,
And those who stay be glad. Amen!”

Coburn Library

WHEN the present building was opened in March, 1894, the college possessed a very small collection of books numbering 8,000, half of which were of no value to the college world. They made an insignificant showing in so mammoth a building. But the library collection, in spite of no endowment for books, has steadily increased. When the Evening Telegraph purchased the Morning Gazette in May of 1923, the library acquired the files of both papers back to the time of their beginnings. This was a library in itself and had to be housed in the loft of Palmer Hall for lack of room in Coburn. Frequently during the last few years, a load of those books used least of all has been moved out and stored, to make room for new purchases and valuable gifts. Today the library building seems pitifully small and the erection of the main building of which the present structure will be the south wing is a commanding necessity.

MANLEY D. ORMES

During the past year the librarian after five years of labor has completed cataloguing all the newspaper files of the city from the founding of the town down to date. This work is being continued every day as the papers are issued. 13,500 cards have already been used and on the average ten items are listed on every card, thus making 135,000 entries altogether, covering all important happenings in the history of the town.

The library has been greatly enriched recently by the gift of two notable private libraries, that of Mrs. S. E. Solly, and that of Rev. A. F. Ridges.

Department of Mathematics

Prof. SISAM

EXTENSIVE and intensive research work has figured largely in the life of the Mathematics Department this year. Assisted by Cecil B. Read of the Senior class, a study has been made of scientific methods of sectioning Freshman. It is believed that this will lead to more accurate division of classes.

The individual members of the Department have also been conducting various projects along Mathematical lines. Professor Sisam, Head of the Department, and president of Delta Epsilon, honorary scientific fraternity is in co-operation with members of the departments at Cornell, Illinois, and Princeton, publishing a report on the facts now known about Rational Transformations.

Professor Lovitt, in co-operation with Professor Holtzclaw, of the University of Kansas, published in October a textbook entitled "Mathematics in Business." Professor Albright has done his work along still another line. In March, he presented to the faculty a series of curves showing the distribution of grades in various ways within the college.

The Department has suffered the loss of Professor Wapple, who resigned to take a position, last fall, as head of the Department at Southwestern University. His place has been filled by Miss Catherine Hood.

The Rocky Mountain Section of the American Mathematical Association met at Colorado College, on April 22 and 23. Professor Lovitt is President of the Section.

The Judson M. Bemis Department of Business Administration and Banking

THIS Department has had a very active and successful year. All the classes have had an increase of students over last year—the classes in business of 20%, and similar increases in the economics and sociology classes. There were two new instructors in the Department: Miss Margaret B. Bennett and Mr. Glenn E. McLaughlin. Miss Bennett was temporarily appointed to fill the position of Professor Mautner, absent on leave. Mr. McLaughlin, an alumnus of the Colorado College, was appointed last spring. Both these new instructors made fine records for themselves in the course of the year's work.

It is a custom of the Department of Business Administration to take groups of its students to the neighboring cities of Denver and Pueblo to study first hand the activities of the large industrial and mercantile enterprises there. This year's trip was under the direction of Mr. McLaughlin, who conducted the students thru the following Denver industrial houses: The Ford Plant, the Gates Rubber Company, the Denver Packing Company, the Denver Rock Drill Company, and by special invitation, the plant of the Rocky Mountain News.

Of the graduates in Business Administration several have established themselves as certified public accountants and instructors in Accounting, while a number are making good in business. Still others are doing graduate work in Eastern Universities.

DOCTOR MCMURTRY

THE work in this department is wholly elective, for the most part open to all students, and arranged in semester courses throughout, so that the student with time and inclination may enter the work of any semester without the necessity of continuing the work for a full year in order to receive credit.

In 1926-27 courses were offered in Biblical Introduction, Life of Christ, Biblical Literature, Greek Testament, Principles of Jesus, Early Church History (to end of fourth century), and History of Religion. These courses are taught without sectarian bias, for their world content in religious and moral values.

Department of History

WORK in the History Department of the College has centered itself around an interest in research work and advanced study.

Prof. Archer B. Hulbert has been absent from the college during the second semester, and has been in California completing his search for information needed for his map of the Santa Fe Trail. He hopes to finish that work during the summer.

Professor Binkley has made some progress on his "History of the Republic of Texas" and will spend the summer in Texas in a further search for materials for the book.

Mr. Meyer, absent on leave, has been replaced by Mr. Scholes.

Department of Philosophy

WE call it a liberal college, and one likes to think of it as liberal, i. e., free in two ways. First, it is a place where students freely engage to pursue studies, rather than a place where tasks are set for them, a place of assignments, recitations, quizzes, marks, absence reports, and where diplomas are eventually given for a specified number of "semester hours" patiently endured. The liberal college is free, in the second place, in being a place of intellectual tolerance where minds grow into capaciousness. It is the aim of the Department of Philosophy to contribute its share to the realization of these ends.

Prof. WJLM

Department of Education

DEAN HERSHEY

THE courses in education in Colorado College are designed to provide a general introduction to the means and methods of education as represented by the public schools and other educational agencies, necessary instruction in terms of hours for the graduate certificate to teach in the public schools of Colorado, and fifteen hours in education courses to enable our graduates to teach in the high schools approved by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Three fields of study are offered: General and educational psychology, educational methods and principles of teaching, and historical development, present organization and administration of educational institutions.

Department of Chemistry

"This is the age of chemistry." Chemistry is no longer the mystic art which only the chosen few can understand. Colorado College, accommodating itself to the changing times, has accumulated facilities for the teaching of this subject which can be surpassed by very few of the colleges of the country.

Department of Physics

THE physics department under the direction of Professor P. E. Boucher and Dr. W. F. Drea is well equipped to give advanced laboratory work in electricity and magnetism, optics and light, dynamos and motors, X-rays, photography, illumination, radio and vacuum tubes, and radioactivity. This year a complete X-ray laboratory was installed.

Department of Biology

FOR training in the powers of observation, sound thinking, and knowledge of the fundamentals of right living, there is no better subject than Biology. The Department of Biology at Colorado College is well equipped with apparatus and offers a variety of courses dealing with plant and animal life.

Department of Engineering

THE Engineering Department was established at Colorado College in 1903, under the direction of Dr. Florian Cajori as Dean. Complete courses in Civil and Electrical Engineering were given until 1919, when readjustments, due largely to the War, were made. Since that time, the electrical work has been handled by the Physics Department. Courses as now given, lead to the degree of Bachelor of Science with major in Civil, Chemical and Electrical Engineering.

Department of Forestry

THE Colorado School of Forestry offers what many of the students feel is a very delightful course of study. During the junior and senior years more than half of the work is done with the students and faculty living, studying, and working in the woods.

Department of Geology

THE Geology Department of Colorado College has in the past year taken great strides in expansion and general improvement.

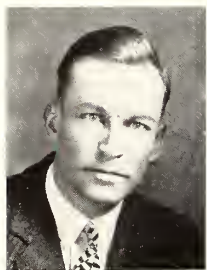

Much of this rapid growth and extension would have been impossible had it not been for the work of the Marland Oil Company in supplying equipment and assisting in many other ways.

A special feature of the department this year was the offering of a course in Climatology under Robert DeC. Ward, Harvard Exchange Professor.

Department of Romance Language

Prof. J. LATIMER

UNDER the capable leadership of Professor Charles T. Latimer, the work of the Department of the Romance Languages has come to rank high in the college. Each year an increasingly large number of students major in Romance Languages. The Department offers a wide variety of courses in French and Spanish, including conversational courses as well as more advanced literary courses. A two year course in Italian is also offered by the Department.

Professor Latimer, whose academic work was taken at Colorado College and at the University of Chicago, has also studied and traveled abroad. All of the other members of the Department have had the experience of foreign travel and study also. Recently three of the members, Miss Graves, Miss Buek, and Mr. Snyder made an extended trip thru Europe, spending some time at Paris where they studied at the Sorbonne.

During the present year, Prof J. W. Crowell who has direct charge of the Spanish courses in the Department is on leave of absence and is studying at the University of Toulouse in Southern France. As part of his work abroad he is collecting material in Spain for use in some special research work that he is doing. He will return to Colorado College in the Fall.

Mr. Snyder, an instructor in beginning French and Spanish, who holds his A. B. from Boulder and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, is planning to study next year at Harvard for his Master's Degree.

Department of Classical Language

THIS year, the Classical Department has been fortunate in its ability to offer beside the usual courses in Greek and Latin Literature, Ancient History, and Classical Mythology, a course on the Greek Drama under Dr. C. C. Mierow. Dr. Mierow is well known as a Latin scholar, and his course has proven to be of great interest. Dr. Mierow is a Princeton University man, and was, before election to the Presidency of the College, Head of the Department of Classical Languages, but now teaches just the one course. Professor Herbert Mierow is the present Head of the Department. He is well versed in both Latin and Greek. He is assisted in his work in the Department by Miss Marjorie Davis.

Prof. H. E. MIEROW

A chapter of the Honor Fraternity, Eta Sigma Phi, was founded on the campus here this year. Membership is limited to students who have had eighteen hours in Latin or Greek with an average of at least B. This organization although it is comparatively new in collegiate circles has proved to be very successful and has established several chapters in various colleges.

The founding of the new fraternity is due in great part to the Classical Club—an organization which for several years has been open to anyone taking work in the Department, and which carries on many activities during the year. Meetings with programs by the members, social meetings, and each spring the production of a Greek play, given during commencement week.

There is in the Department one endowed chair, the Gile Professorship.

Department of English

Prof. GOODENOUGH

THE problems in the teaching of English become more difficult as life becomes more complex. The Department discovers that presentations formulated in the past are no longer adequate, in that they fail to reflect the intricacies of modern life, and fail to give due place to the responses of the individual. As a consequence, the department, in so far as is practicable, encourages greater freedom, both in study and interpretation. Since the best fulfillment of this purpose comes through work for the degree with honors, we invite the students, during their first and second years, to qualify for honors, in respect to grades and individual attitude.

A true appreciation of the best in literature demands a comprehension of the best in thought; therefore, a familiarity with the significant findings of science and of philosophy becomes necessary to proper understanding of the emotionalized expression of life which is art. "Poetry is the breath and finer spirit of all knowledge."

The Department of English has always the purpose to encourage the creative activities of the mind. A proper use of our language, and an acquaintance with the common facts of literature are important; but even these fundamentals cannot be well used except in individual ways. The best, to the student and to the College, must come through the capture of what has not been so well expressed. The Department will try consistently to arouse in the student that finer appreciation of literature which will mean a life-long enjoyment to them.

Department of Music and Expression

THE School of Music, since its reorganization in 1905, has consistently followed its purpose to bring to the western student the educational ideals and praxis of the most progressive thinkers not only of our East, but of Europe as well. The so-called Methods, with their obsolete rules and misguided systems, were discarded and a scientific method substituted. This has acted to relieve us of the superficial and misled student, and has brought it about that the large part of the work of the School is concerned with musical education in the true sense. The present year is much the most promising in its history. More students are doing the regular academic courses, and in particular choosing a Music major than ever before. The natural result of this will be the adoption of a course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Music. Then the School will be fulfilling its true and intended purpose. With the Music major the student can now get a college education, with the A. B. degree, and at the same time become a competent musician and teacher of music. The field for the student so equipped is not crowded, as the general field is,—there are many institutions, and many openings for the private teacher, which can be adequately conducted only by such a teacher. And the work is both very interesting and remunerative, while with it may well go the consciousness of performing a service of the greatest consequence to the community.

History of Art

IN conforming to the demand of college life today, Colorado College has remodeled its courses in the history of art, stressing the important part that art has played in the development of the race.

The study of ancient art is especially profitable as a key to man's remarkable adaptation to his environment, and the archaeological finds as studied through reproductions and originals today are valuable aids to such interpretation.

National art is important only as an individual expression of its peoples. Hence, colleges are devoting much time to the study of Russian, Scandinavian, and certain forms of primitive expression of art, where the outstanding characteristics plainly reveal truths of universal importance.

The value of the courses in art appreciation and in architecture has been greatly increased by beautiful slides and helpful lectures given the college by the Carnegie Corporation of New York under the direction of the American Institute of Architects.

In addition, the laboratory work, made possible by the unusually complete equipment of books, etchings, and photographs donated by the Corporation, has vitalized the work and doubled the appeal it offers.

The college is most fortunate in being selected as a center from which the Foundation expects improved methods in college instruction in art history.

The Broadmoor Art Academy

THE Broadmoor Art Academy was affiliated with Colorado College in April, 1926, and is now a part of the Fine Arts Department of the College. Although not conferring degrees, the Academy credits student work toward degrees in accordance with College regulations.

Courses in Applied Art, Interior Decorating, Costume Designing, and Costume Illustration are included among the various types of work offered. In addition, the location and resources of the Academy present unusual attraction for the student of landscape painting or for those whose chief interest lies in figure and portrait work.

The teaching staff includes Robert Reid, N. A., President Emeritus; Randall Davey, Life classes; Ernest Lawson, N. A., Landscape classes; Wanda Caton, Applied Art; Lloyd Moylan, Winter Life classes; S. W. Schaefer, M. D., B. A., Lecturer on Anatomy as Applied to Art; and W. Billie Lewis, Junior classes.

DEAN HERSHEY

DEAN LEE

Dean of Men

WITHOUT attempting to give a detailed list of duties, it might be said that any wide variation from normal conduct or performance among the men of the college is of interest to the Dean of Men. This does not mean that he seeks a high degree of standardization in everything that affects the men of the college. In many instances the variation is highly desirable and is encouraged.

But a certain degree of regimentation is necessary wherever a considerable group is working together. Perhaps the Dean of Men is a kind of time and quality keeper for the men in Colorado College. He is interested in seeing that work is done with reasonable promptness and that the quality does not fall too far below accepted standards. But there is always a peculiar delight in serving the original, ambitious student and the prospective scholar.

Dean of Women

THE social life of the young women has always been one of the distinctive pictures of Colorado College. Out-of-town students live in the four dormitories: McGregor, Montgomery, Ticknor and Bemis Hall. The large common dining room in Bemis, with the after dinner coffee hour on Sunday makes possible a spirit of democracy and good fellowship.

Life in the dormitories is regulated by Student Government and a member of the faculty is hostess in each hall. At various times during the year there are large all-girl parties. The outdoor recreations of the students, however, are emphasized more than the indoor parties.

In the sponsor system the younger girls come to know the older students, and resident faculty members share not only the pleasures of student life, but they frequently help in the solution of student problems. Indeed, "There is no place like Colorado College for a girl!"

Student Government

THE Student Government Board which concerns itself with the life of the women of Colorado College is built upon a democratic ideal. Formerly all the rules were made by the faculty. The Board, which was granted its charter in 1906, was necessarily greatly supervised by the faculty but has been so successful that at present it makes all regulations which seem "necessary to the welfare of the group."

In the spring the ten members of the Board are elected by the hall girls. This Board represents the four classes, the president of the four halls, and the Student Government president.

The Associated Students of Colorado College

THE past year for the Administrative Council, the student governing body of the college, was one of real accomplishment and advancement along many lines.

The system of finance was made much more efficient by a supervision over all student activity funds by the treasurer, with the adoption of requisition blanks, double check signing by the president and treasurer, and regular reports aiding in this.

The council this year added judicial duties to its legislative work, following the abolishment of the old disciplinary councils. This body was also instrumental in having the college admitted to full membership in the National Student Federation of America.

The plan of having the library available for work in the evenings was heartily supported by the organization, which also took charge of an unusually successful Homecoming and had a large part in the procuring of the college vesper services which were inaugurated this year.

Another feature was the work of an activities committee in supervising and restricting all campus organizations, in an attempt to stimulate valuable groups and to discourage those which would be detrimental to the general plan of student organizations.

During the year one amendment to the A.S.C.C. constitution was passed, giving Jo Irish, Graduate Manager of Athletics, a vote on the athletic committee.

Enthusiasm Committee

UNDER the efficient management of Tuffy Haymes, this year's Chairman of the Enthusiasm Committee, the ardor of the student body has been as demonstrative as the Glorious Fourth.

The "pep" meetings held in chapel are conducted by the Chairman of the Committee and under the leadership of this year's Committee the first torch-light parade in three years was held.

Traditions Committee

THE Traditions Committee, created in 1923 by the Associated Students of Colorado College, is composed of: Merle Powell, Chairman, Dorothy MacDougall, and Guy H. Albright.

This committee is in direct charge of the annual under class contests of the year. It must compile a complete record of such contests and of the observance of other traditions of the college. This committee also arranges for the establishment and use of Freshman insignia and shall provide such means for enforcing rules they deem necessary.

Pan Pan

JOE RAY and David Armstrong, both members of the Sophomore class, were the chief workers in putting over a "bigger and better Pan Pan." For the first time in years, stunts to burlesque the faculty were forbidden. A very wide range of stunts, extending from the silly to the highly dramatic, were presented by each one of the societies and fraternities. Music was furnished between each act by Tuffy Haymes and his orchestra.

All-College Picnic

JACK MILLER and his committee for the All-College Picnic turned the Picnic of former years into an All-College Dance at the Broadmoor Golf Club and into one of the most enjoyable events of the year. The usual races and games featured the Picnic at Seven Falls in the morning; and the music of 'Tuffy Haymes' orchestra cheered on the dance in the afternoon. The Picnic is an annual event which is held on Washington's Birthday.

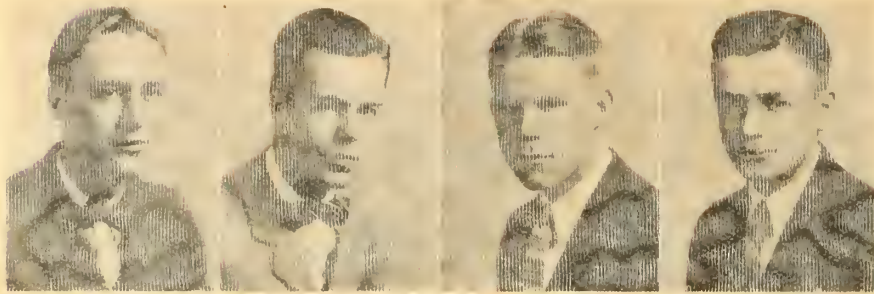

Winfield Scott Stratton

W • S. STRATTON came to Colorado in 1872. His first venture in mining was in 1873-74, but was a failure. Instead of being discouraged he became all the more determined to win success at mining, and for more than ten consecutive years he left Colorado Springs with a mining outfit. In May 1891, Mr. Stratton entered the Cripple Creek district for the first time. He soon located a claim on the southern slope of Battle Mountain and on July 3 he seemed to have a strong vision that gold was there. On the fourth of July, 1891, he staked out the location and choose the patriotic names of the "Independence" and the "Washington"—which later yielded a bulk of his colossal fortune. Mr. Stratton was a builder of Colorado Springs as well as a stupendous factor in the development of the Cripple Creek district.

General William J. Palmer

GENERAL PALMER has been termed Colorado's foremost citizen. Prior to the Civil war he was engaged in engineering and railroad construction. During the war he served in the cavalry and was raised in command until he was a brigadier-general. After the war he resumed employment with railroad construction and operation. In 1865 he was chosen secretary and treasurer for the Kansas-Pacific. He built the railroad from Kit Carson to Denver. General Palmer conceived the plan of the D. & R. G. R. R. with its many branches which were so valuable to Colorado mines. He was also the founder of Colorado Springs and one of the factors in devising rules, adopted by the Town Company. It was said of him that he never was actuated by a spirit of self-seeking, but rather by a genuine, broad minded public spirit. He perhaps did more to develop the resources of Colorado than any man of his time.

History of Colorado College

By Manley D. Ormes

AT A MEETING of the State Congregational Conference in Denver, January 20, 1874, Rev. T. N. Haskell gave an address on the importance of Higher Christian Education in general, and of a Christian College for Colorado. At an earlier meeting the subject of a Christian College in Colorado had come up for consideration and a committee, of which Mr. Haskell was chairman, appointed to consider the matter. At the close of Mr. Haskell's address this question was before the conference,—“Are we now ready to take steps to organize a Christian College?” After prayer and discussion, the question was unanimously carried. Three offers of sites were presented by Greeley, Denver and Colorado Springs. A committee on location at this conference recommended that the Colorado Springs offer be accepted, which was carried. A self perpetuating board of trade was appointed which soon incorporated. Rev. T. N. Haskell was appointed financial agent, and the Rev. Johnathan Edwards, a brother-in-law of Mr. Haskell's as the first president, and it was announced that classes would start on the 6th of May, 1874. Three rooms were rented on the second floor of the Wanless block on the west side of the hall, to be used until the completion of the temporary building on North Tejon Street across the street from Acacia or North Park. One term of twelve weeks was held in these rented rooms. During the summer the temporary building was erected and was ready for the opening of the second term on September 8. Here the College classes were held until January, 1880. The Cumberland Presbyterian Church building standing alongside was used as a general assembly room and for the daily chapel exercises. In this temporary building twenty-four by fifty feet were three classrooms, sixteen by twenty-two feet each, and a commodious hat and cloak room. Thirty desks were provided, a large book case, and one of Smith's cabinet organs.

President Edwards resigned early in 1875. The trustees appointed Rev. James G. Daugherty president to succeed him. About this time a financial panic which had overtaken the country was keenly felt here, and a visitation of hordes of grasshoppers had destroyed all crops and other vegetation in this region, completing the financial ruin of most of the inhabitants, and Pres. Daugherty, unable to raise funds to carry on the infant enterprise, after nearly a year of effort, resigned early in 1876. Following him in the presidential office was Rev. Edward Payson Tenney, who remained in office for six years. As soon as the temporary building was done, an architect, Mr. George Summers, was employed to draw the plans of the first permanent building to stand on college ground. Mr. Tenney made efforts to get funds for the erection of this building. He got a few friends in the east to provide for the salaries of the teachers for a term of years, among them Mr. Henry C. Cutler, after whom Cutler Hall (originally called Palmer Hall) was named, and he solicited funds in town and in the east for the new college hall. But times were hard and collections slow. On the 4th of July, 1877, ground was broken, excavations were made by the citizens without cost to the college, the foundations were put in, and then the work stopped for lack of funds. The citizens took a large hand in raising money with which to complete it. The Womans

College Centennial Association gave great assistance to President Tenney and the trustees in raising funds. For three years socials were held, railroad excursions arranged for, entertainments of various kinds given, feasts of lanterns held for two successive years, and every known device employed to get enough funds with which to erect the present Cutler Hall—without the two wings. In 1882 the two wings were added, General William J. Palmer meeting the entire expense. Early in June of this year, the first class composed of two was graduated, and President Tenney was inaugurated.

Mr. Tenney was a man of great vision, not only in educational and religious matters, but also in business matters. Among other methods to secure funds for the college, he bought all unoccupied land for a mile north of the college reservation and at first turned it into a farm on which students worked for their college expenses. On this tract was erected a dairy building, laundry, and a girls' club house. This latter was burned in the night of January 1, 1884. The other two buildings are still standing, the dairy on the northwest corner and the laundry on the southwest corner of Tejon and Buena Ventura streets, though now greatly modified. President Tenney with this land endowment scheme, the purchase of North Cheyenne Canon and a part of South Cheyenne Canon, and many other minor schemes got beyond his financial depth and he resigned in 1884. For four years there were several acting presidents—but no man with the title and prestige of president until the fall of 1888. These were dark days for the college. Many of the trustees and other friends of the college were very much discouraged and some were in favor of closing it up permanently. But there were a set of determined and resolute men working in the college. Professor W. D. Sheldon had come out with President Tenney in 1876, Professor Loud followed in 1877, and Professor George H. Stone in 1881, Professor George N. Marden in 1881, and Professor Strieby in 1888. These men were bound to keep the college going. Professor Marden spent the most of these four years from 1884-1888 in the east raising money to enable the others to remain with the college. He found a young minister in a church in Baltimore whom he interested in the college—and the trustees elected him as president, Rev. William F. Slocum.

Upon his arrival here, the college took on an active life. The mortgages on college property were paid off, the faculty was enlarged, buildings sprang up, the raising of endowment began, and a development inaugurated which resulted in the present equipment, faculty, student body, and endowments. President

Slocum's first work after raising the mortgages on college property was the erection of a dormitory for men and Hagerman Hall was built during his first year. Mrs. Slocum organized the Woman's Educational Society, which is still as active in the life of the college. This society erected Montgomery Hall as a dormitory for young women. Other buildings were erected as follows: Coburn Library in 1894, the Henry R. Wolcott Observatory in the same year, Ticknor Hall in 1897, Perkins Fine Arts Hall in 1900, McGregor Hall in 1903, Palmer Hall in 1903, Bemis Hall in 1908, Cossitt Memorial in 1914, and the Administration Building acquired in 1914. There is a long and fascinating story in connection with raising money for each building. The various endowment funds were completed as follows: The first $100,000 finished in December, 1890; in January 1893 D. K. Pearsons gave $50,000 on conditions that the college raise $150,000. For four years President Slocum and the friends of the college worked desperately to meet Dr. Pearson's conditions. At the end of 1896 Dr. Pearsons gave another $50,000 without conditions. In January, 1905, President Slocum started a campaign to raise a half million, which was accomplished in due time. Later a fund of $300,000 was raised and added to the endowment fund, the Rockefeller and Carnegie foundations usually assisting in raising these amounts. Another half million fund was completed in 1917 at the time of President Slocum's resignation, all this in addition to raising funds for buildings, current expenses, etc. President Slocum was a college builder. He not only interested men of large and smaller means in the college and organized all the friends of the college in the whirlwind campaigns which finished all his endowment funds, but he was an unusual judge of men and women whom he collected into his faculty. Cajori, Gile, Parsons, Hills, Ahlers, Howe, Schneider, Woodbridge, Noyes, Parish, Miss Brown, Miss Loomis, and others, in addition to Strieby, Loud and Marden who were in the faculty when he came, formed a group which did their share in building the college. Pres. Slocum built the material side and also helped the faculty to build up a student body and give the college a name among the best institutions of the land. These men and women, some of whom had an international reputation as scholars, were great in character and had the gift of inspiring enthusiasm among their students for learning and for the best things in life.

remembrance for her contribution to the growth and success of the enterprise. She was wise in counsel, a woman of excellent taste and judgment and was a strong cultivating influence with the students.

During the year 1916-1917 which Pres. Slocum spent in the east completing his last endowment fund, the internal affairs of the college were in charge of a faculty committee consisting of Profs. Cajori, Schneider, and Parish, and it was in this year that the enrollment of students reached 775, the largest number ever working in the college in a single year. This number was greater than our present faculty and our accommodations could properly care for.

Dr. Clyde Augustus Duniway was chosen president in 1917. Pres. Duniway faced the difficult task of creating almost a new faculty. Some of the previous faculty had gone into war work and others resigned and went elsewhere. During his administration the United States participated in the World War. This college with most of the colleges of the country offered its services to the Government. The buildings and grounds were turned into a military camp. In the midst of his service here the Rockefeller Board offered to give $300,000 to the college, as soon as the latter had raised $600,000. Pres. Duniway inaugurated the campaign and secured pledges of $125,000 but resigned in June, 1923 with the fund incomplete.

Dr. Charles Christopher Mierow, professor of the Classical Languages and Literature was at once made acting president, which position he held for two years. So smoothly had the college affairs been managed that he commended himself to the Board of Trustees and other friends of the college and in June, 1925 he was elected to the office of president. His task has partly been to recover the ground which this and all other colleges lost during the war, and to bring it back to its position of power and commanding influence in the state it had during its "Golden Age." Dr. Mierow was inaugurated to the high office of president in the Burns Theatre December 5, 1925, in the presence of a distinguished assembly. Ex-President Slocum honored the occasion by making the trip from Boston and by delivering an address; and addresses were also made by Raymond Blaine Fosdick and by Pres. Mierow.

In the autumn of 1925, under the leadership of Mr. F. C. van Diest, a recently elected member of the Board of Trustees, the endowment fund was completed, bringing a sense of relief and cheer to the college and a promise of greater and wider usefulness in the years to come.

Mr. van Diest and the Boosters Club, an organization of townspeople gotten together for the purpose of helping the college, in 1926, led in a movement to build a stadium on Washburn Field. This was started in April and completed in time for football season of 1926. This has resulted in greater comfort for the attendants upon the athletic contests and in greater enthusiasm for athletics among the students of the college. It was dedicated on October 30 by dignified and appropriate ceremonies, the chief address being made by Pres. Mierow and a response by Douglas McHendrie, president of the student body.

Presentation of the Stadium

On August 28, before an audience of 3,000 people, the new stadium was formally presented to the College by the Boosters Club in exercises held on the new field.

In the principal address of the day, Mr. E. C. van Diest pointed out the great need of the stadium, explained its construction, and in conclusion turned over the keys to President C. C. Mierow, who accepted them in behalf of the school.

Expressing the sentiment and appreciation of the College, President Mierow mentioned the fact that the stadium represented the first new campus construction in twelve years, since Cossitt Hall was erected in 1914.

Closing the exercises, a pageant, the Pied Piper of Hamelin, was presented, with leading local dramatic figures taking part, former Governor Oliver H. Shoup playing a prominent role, and 500 school children participating in the production.

Washburn Field

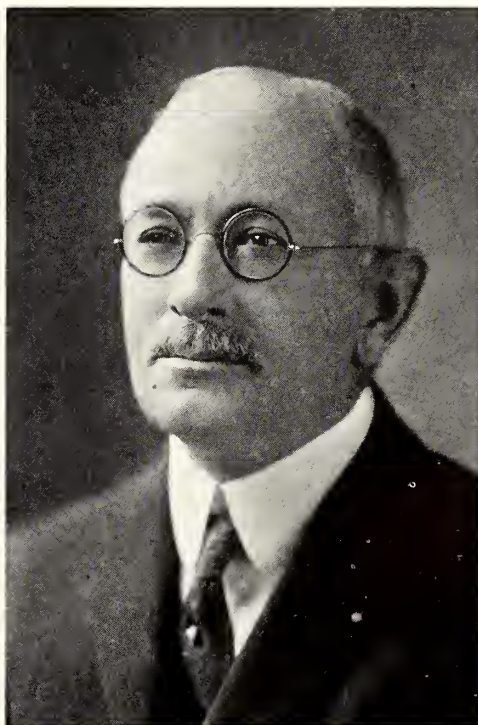

Dedication of the Stadium

As an outstanding event of the 1926 Homecoming program, the new Colorado College stadium was officially dedicated before a crowd of 6,000 townspeople, alumni, and students, preliminary to the football game with Colorado University.

President Microw in his address announced that Mr. E. C. van Diest had declined the honor of having the stadium bear his name, with the result that Washburn Field should continue to be the title of the College athletic field.

Douglas McHendrie, in pointing out the almost immeasurable effect on school athletics, expressed the feeling and appreciation of the student body for the stadium, and commented on it as an embodiment of the splendid spirit existant between the citizens of Colorado Springs and the College.

The ceremonies were completed with a dedication by Margaret Baker, one of last year's beauty contest winners, and a formal flag raising service.

The Colorado College Tiger

THE official student publication of the college, the name of which was changed this year from The Tiger to The Colorado College Tiger, is the semi-weekly newspaper of the students, with the Editor and Manager being elected from the student body and the other members of the staff appointed by them. It is financed by a subscription included in the fee paid to the Associated Student organization and by the advertising contained in it, which at present covers a little more than the actual expenses.

During the year no radical changes were made in the organization of the staff with the exception of creating the position of News Editor, which relieves the Editor of assigning stories to the other members of the staff and takes care of much of the news gathering routine.

Features of this year's Tiger were the establishment of a column known as "Potter's Clay," which was devoted to self-expression of students and contained quite a number of worth-while bits of verse and some fair prose. Another was the active part taken by the paper in the spring elections of student officers, as the Editor, who was the first non-fraternity man in years, had the advantage of a freedom from partisanship which made this possible. Editorial policies were strong, especially in the fight for better chapel conditions and more freedom in speech and press for the student body.

The Pikes Peak Nugget

THE Pikes Peak Nugget is the official student annual of Colorado College. It is published by the Junior Class and student fees guarantee a large circulation for the book. In the spring the Sophomore Class elects the Editor and Manager for the succeeding year.

A yearbook today ceases to be a mere memory book—it's scope is much greater inasmuch as it is an agency in explaining to the new student what the college or university has to offer. Thus the thought in creating this book has been to try to present an edition as interesting to the prospective student as well as recording the events of those in college. Indeed, mistakes have been made, but we hope they can be overlooked in favor of what might bear merit.

The theme of the book is centered around the semicentennial of the State of Colorado. A few of the outstanding men who were instrumental in carrying out the problems of that era have been mentioned. The introductory scenes are emblematic of the present day progress of our state in commerce, sugar beet growing, iron smelting, and mining.

If this volume arouses the desire of serving, as those philanthropic pioneers helped in developing a greater State of Colorado, its worth shall have been realized. Even if you have heard before that it is up to you to "carry on", it might warrant remembering.

Student Handbook

THE Student Handbook, or "Freshman Bible" as it is better known, is compiled each summer with the purpose of including information for the especial benefit of new students in College. The booklet, containing explanations of school customs and traditions, the college calendar, lists of organizations and publications, and various directories, becomes a practical pocket reference book for every student.

The Handbook this year, edited and managed by Jack Miller, presented an unusual wealth of material from both an interesting and informative standpoint.

The nineteen twenty-seven debate season has been exceptionally successful from the standpoint of interest taken in home debates, entertainment of the state conference, and the women's trip through Wyoming, Utah, and Colorado.

Home debates were held in both the men's and women's divisions with Colorado University, Denver University, Colorado Aggies, Colorado Teacher's, Wyoming University, and Western State. Debates engaged in on the women's tour were with Wyoming University, Utah University, Western State, and Brigham Young University.

For the first time in our history, we entertained the Colorado Debate Conference in its three-day convention here. About seventy-five debaters representing the colleges and universities of the state engaged in debates before open forums, churches, classes, college chapel, and luncheon clubs. Hikes, sightseeing, and a dinner dance furnished the entertainment for the visitors.

Home-coming

Home-coming is the one time of the year when the Colorado College campus is turned over to the alumni, and they once again enjoy the privilege of re-living their happy college days, and of recalling all the memories of their Alma Mater which have become so dear to them. Home-coming is usually an event of October, and this year, every student and member of the faculty endeavored to make it the best and most successful of them all. It was opened officially on Friday morning with a big parade. Appropriate floats, bands and firecrackers made it a gala occasion. In the afternoon, a large tea was given in Bemis hall in honor of the alumnae, and it was really a delightful get-together, with old friends meeting again. This was followed by the annual Sophomore Barbecue, which every C. C. student will say is a combination of the peppiest pep-meeting and best picnic of the whole year. At this time, the Tigers gather around the bon-fire. Stunts by different college organizations and talks by the coaches and alumni feature the program of the Barbecue, and then the proverbial ham, buns, cider and doughnuts are served. The Growler's, or the Men's Booster Organization, gave a dance at the Antler's hotel after the pep-meeting. Conversation again was of old friends, good times held at C. C. long ago, and, most important of all, of the game to be held on Saturday between Boulder and Colorado College. The password of the evening was "Beat Boulder." The game on Saturday completed the perfect spirit of Home-coming, for the Tigers romped all over the University men and defeated them decisively. During the half, President Mierow dedicated the new football stadium, which had been completed just a short time before. The week-end program ended Saturday night after the game, with an all-college hop, at which alumni and students mingled together in another of the wonderful good times which are so plentiful at Colorado College.

Classical Club

The Classical Club of Colorado College was founded November 18, 1921, by the professors in the classical language department. It was founded for the purpose of furthering the interest of Greek and Latin students in the classics. Under the leadership of Dr. C. C. Mierow, the club arranges fortnightly programs, when there are interesting discussions in which the majors in this department take an active interest. The most important feature of this organization is its presentation each year of a Greek play. This production is always given in the spring in Cossitt stadium, the Greek amphitheater. During the past year, the club selected "Helen," an ancient Greek play by Euripides. The costumes, made under the direction of Miss Marjorie Davis, were very effective, as were the dances, coached by Miss Eleanor Davis. Professor Harold Blaine assisted with the coaching, and the play proved to be one of the most finished productions ever given in Colorado College. The Classical Club was also influential in securing a chapter of Eta Sigma Phi, the National Greek Fraternity. This chapter was established this year and has proved to be one of the outstanding organizations on the campus even in this short time. The Classical Club, together with Eta Sigma Phi, provides very great aid to the student of classical languages, by furnishing such valuable programs and by acquainting students with others who are interested in the same field of work.

Koshare Dramatic Club

Koshare, the dramatic club of Colorado College, was founded in 1925 from Pearsons, the Men's Dramatic Organization, and the Girls Dramatic Club. Its membership is confined to men and women of the undergraduate student body, and is limited to thirty. Members are chosen by try-outs held at the first of each year, and those of exceptional talent and interest are urged to take part in the productions, as well as in costuming, management and stage-lighting. Professor Harold Blaine of the English department is the director and under his leadership many worth-while plays have been given since the organization of Koshare. During the current year, the feature production was "Lena Rivers," by Marie Doran, a play which reached its greatest popularity in 1907. The play was given with the object of showing the changing standards of the theater. Although there was no attempt at burlesque, the situations proved to be laughable enough in their original vein. The production was outstanding because of the good characterizations, and since most of the roles were rather exacting, this was especially commendable. The settings too were effective, creating the atmosphere which the play demanded. In addition to this revival, Koshare has presented a number of one-act plays of unusual merit. "Martha's Mourning," by Phoebe Hoffman, was given for the Woman's Educational Society, and a one-act play was also given for the Women's Literary Club luncheon, at the Broadmoor Little Theater.

Magna Pan-Pan

Magna Pan-Pan is the annual all-college amateur vaudeville show. It is always given the night before the Christmas vacation begins, and is a time of great hilarity and rejoicing, as well as a last get-together for all the students. Perkins Hall is always crowded to the doors for this occasion, and this year was no exception, although there seemed to be more college spirit and pep than ever. This Pan-Pan was managed by Joe Ray and everyone agreed it was the best production of its kind ever given at Colorado College. All the fraternities, societies, and clubs are asked to give or combine in giving, an original stunt of some sort. This year there were thirteen acts, all clever and unusual. Beside the enjoyment which students get from Pan-Pan, the annual "show" is valuable in that it brings out the talent which might otherwise not find expression. It is not given for any financial gain, but simply to present an evening of uproarious vaudeville. The acts range from light comedy to such lurid plays as "Hearts Aflame" a sordid drama of love and lust in the frozen North. There were a number of good musical acts, and a dancing feature with such numbers as "Spanish Tango," "Salome," and "A Waltz Clog." "The College Boys Orchestra," led by Lord Byron J. M. Haymes, furnished some of the best music ever heard. Truly, Pan-Pan can be called "The Biggest and Best Show" among all vaudeville shows.

All-College Picnic

One of the oldest and dearest traditions of Colorado College is the annual all-college picnic. It is always held on Washington's Birthday at Seven Falls, and is regarded as one of the most enjoyable all-college affairs of the school year. It was managed very successfully this year by Jack Miller, and it was indeed an event which will long be remembered with pleasure. By eleven o'clock Seven Falls is a busy place, and enthusiasm is at its highest pitch when the various contests are announced. These usually include pie eating, wheelbarrow races and races, but this year two entirely original features were introduced—a bowlegged race and a hog-calling contest. These proved to be the sensations of the day. By this time luncheon has arrived, and everyone has developed a monstrous appetite, and the "eats" demand all the attention. In the last few years the picnic has been followed by a dance at the Broadmoor Golf Club. No student would willingly miss this, for it is acknowledged as the liveliest all-college strut of them all. The winners of the various contests are honor guests at the dance and receive all the attention they so well deserve (see Hoddy Johnson). The Junior-Senior baseball game is played off some time during the day with bitter rivalry seen on both sides. The all-college picnic is certainly one of the never-to-be-forgotten affairs of college life—to the Freshman it means that his Freshman cap can be removed forever, and to everyone else it means a wonderful day of real Colorado College spirit and fun.

The Minuet

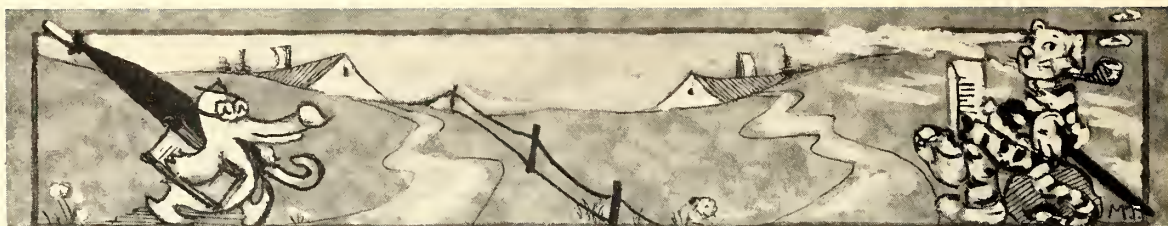

Colonial Ball

Each year the Sophomore girls present one of the loveliest affairs of the social season—the Colonial Ball. It is given during the latter part of February in Bemis Commons and every girl in Colorado College is invited to come dressed as a maiden of the Colonial period. The town girls are guests at dinner at Bemis before the dance. The dinner is always by candlelight, and one of the prettiest of college functions. The grand march starts promptly at eight, and from this moment on, the lovely ladies of George Washington's time dance until midnight. The minuet, danced by ten girls in the Sophomore class is the main feature of the Colonial Ball, and it is considered a very great honor to be one of this group.

Bemis was decorated particularly effectively this year with beautiful ferns and candelabra. The programs were in keeping with the colonial idea which was carried out. Members of the faculty are guests during the minuet, but college men are absolutely taboo. Nevertheless, this rule does not forbid them from looking through Bemis parlor windows at the co-eds, who always seem to be having the grandest and most glorious time, even though the men are conspicuous by their absence. Being such a pretty event, it is hoped that the Colonial Ball will be one of those traditions which never loses its charm and delightfulness.

PICTORIAL

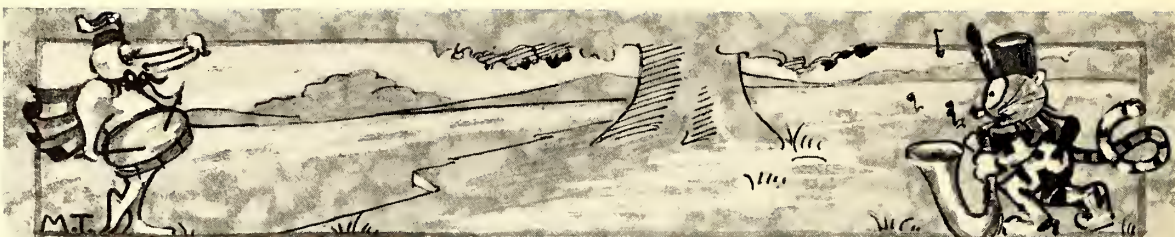

A cross-section of the life of the College as shown in the process of registration, the first all-college dance, before and after chapel scenes, the faculty and seniors in cap and gown entering Perkins Hall for a formal chapel service.

A few of the high spots in the life of a freshman—the blanket-tossing which takes place at the football games, a part of the long lines of the gauntlet, the traditional flag rush, and the tug-of-war over the chilly waters of the college lake.

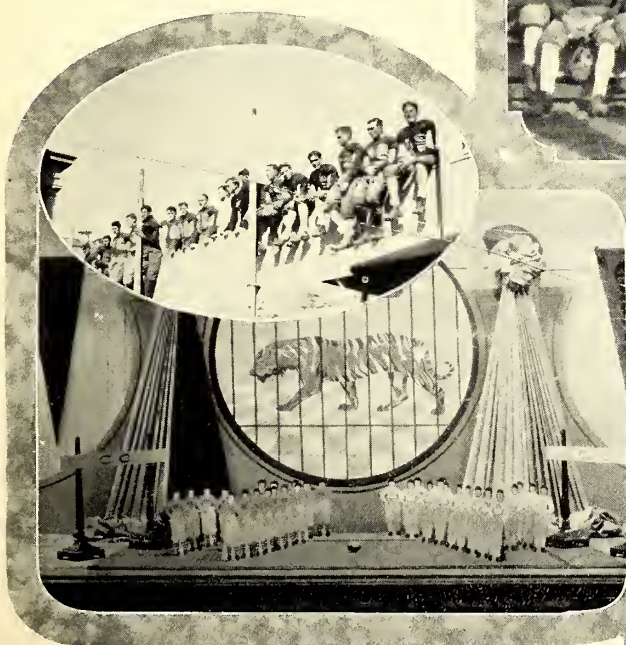

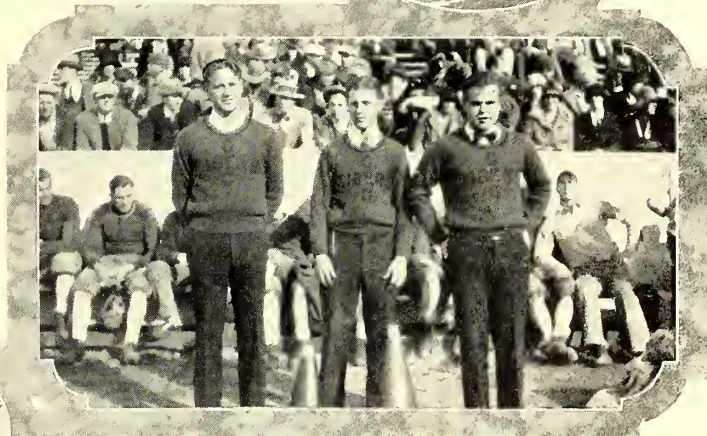

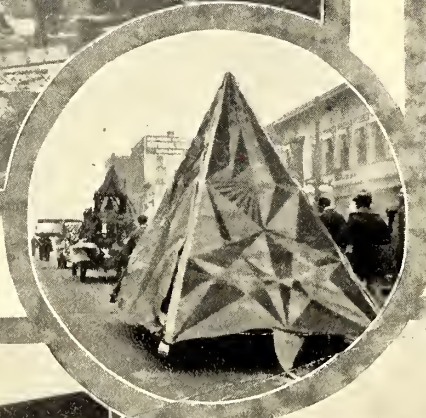

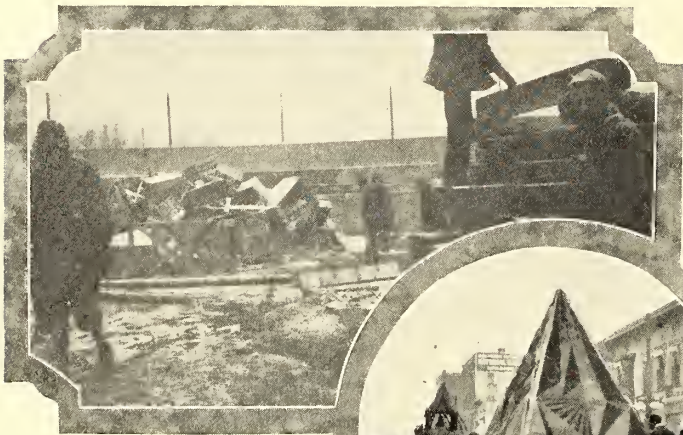

The lure of the football season lies in a hundred places—in the clash of elevens on the Denver University Stadium, a parade in the snow at Fort Collins, during halves in Denver, and the final sendoff before the team leaves amid a burst of cheering on the famous Utah trip, aboard one of the fifteen-hundreds of the D. & R. G. R. R.

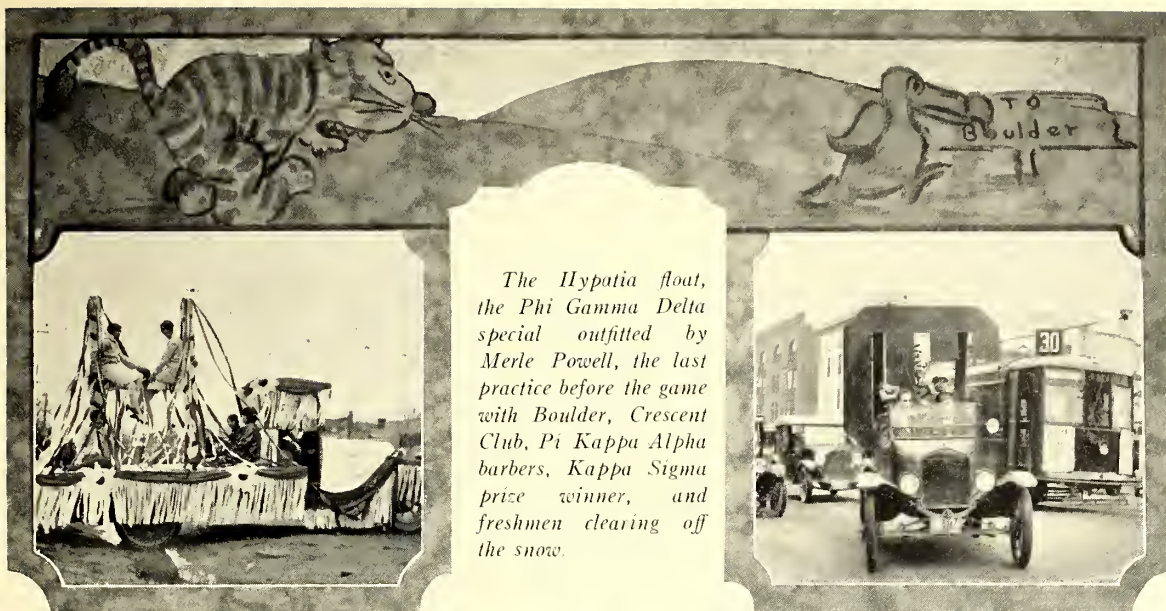

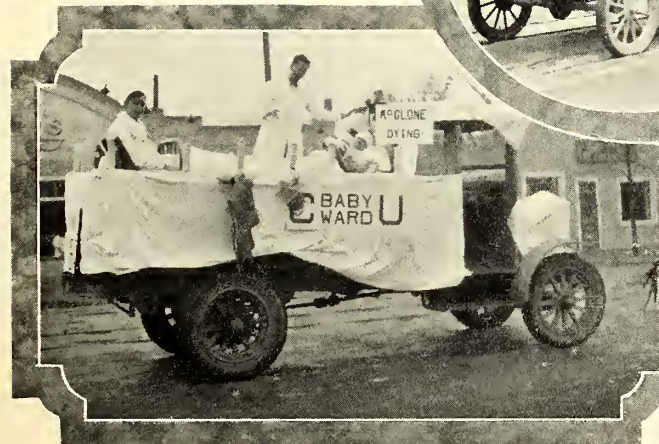

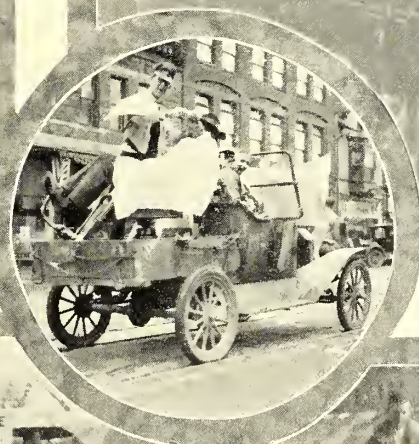

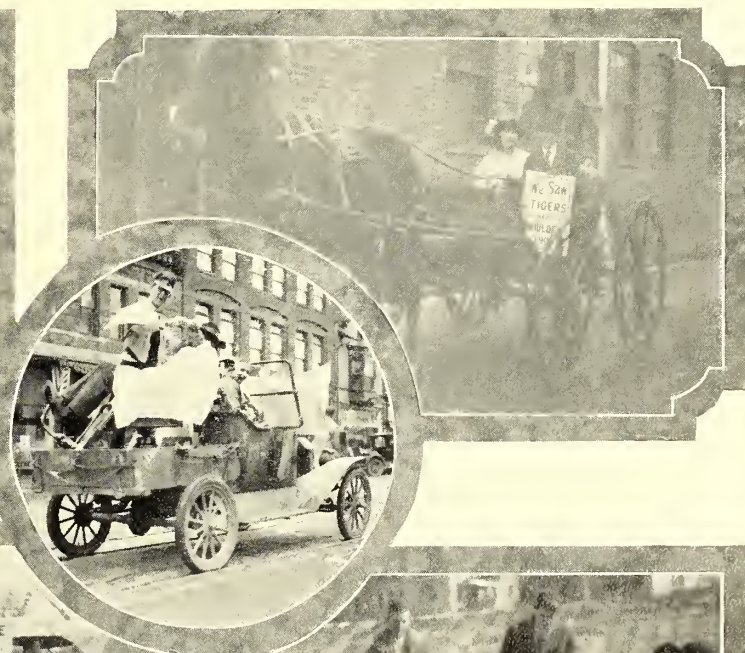

Showing that the game itself is not the only attraction, we have a fast polo game between American Legion men mounted on mules, the American Legion band, and the three yell leaders who provide a show all their own with their feverish contortions, football men at ease, a Barnes-Woods window, and the famous old banner.

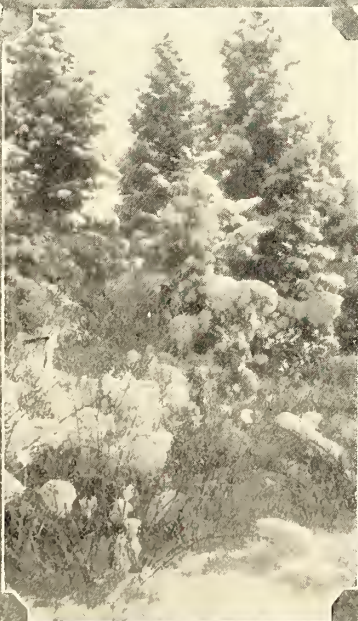

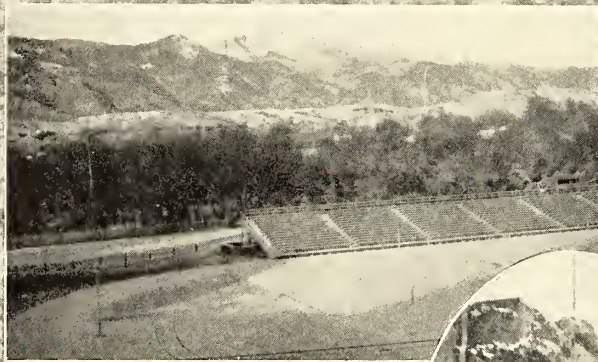

The Hypatia float, the Phi Gamma Delta special outfitted by Merle Powell, the last practice before the game with Boulder, Crescent Club, Pi Kappa Alpha barbers, Kappa Sigma prize winner, and freshmen clearing off the snow.

Winter views of the snow-covered stadium being cleared by the freshmen for a football game, the refrosted entrance to Cossitt Hall, the hub of athletics and men's activities, the rear of Palmer Hall, Cutler bell tower, a clump of pines in holiday decorations, and a scene across the main campus, with trees, grounds, and buildings unbelievably converted over night.

Colorado College, by reason of its situation conveniently near the mountains, offers its members a wide variety of the best along the line of winter sports.

Skiing and snow-shoeing expeditions, winter hiking, and bob-sledding parties are always popular.

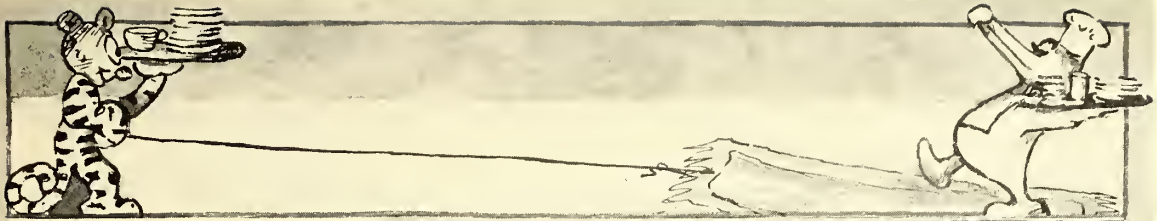

From the scenes below, it is evident that member of the faculty find quite as much enjoyment in these sports as do the students.

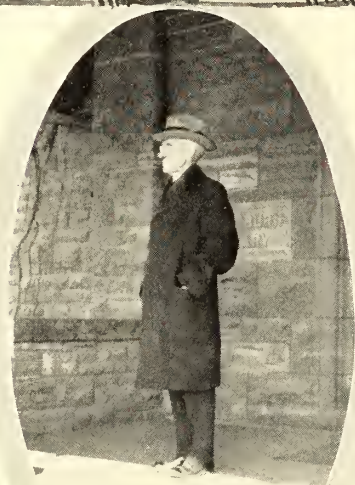

The Colorado College Museum houses a very important collection of data for the use by students in their laboratory and class room work, scenes taken from parts of the Y. M. C. A. room located in Hagerman hall which is open to all men of the college as well as members of the organization, in the lower corner is a group of freshmen in the biology lab.

The psychology lab is a room in which many interesting experiments and research work is completed, a corner of Bemis caught while decorated for the holidays, the physics laboratory where lights may be seen at every hour of the day, the renowned collection of Cossitt hashers, and the same at Bemis.

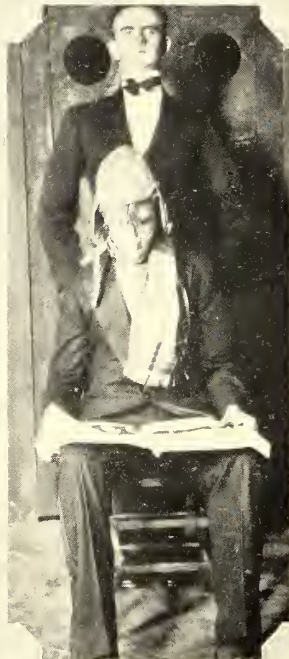

Dr. Ward, Harvard Exchange Professor, pauses a moment to have his picture taken, the seniors in cap and gown before the first formal chapel at which Dr. Ward delivered the address, looking down on a group in front of chapel, the juniors let the seniors pass, the sophomore class again evade the poor frosh who did not know of their big feed in the old 21st street brick yards, and once again the men look on at the Colonial Ball.

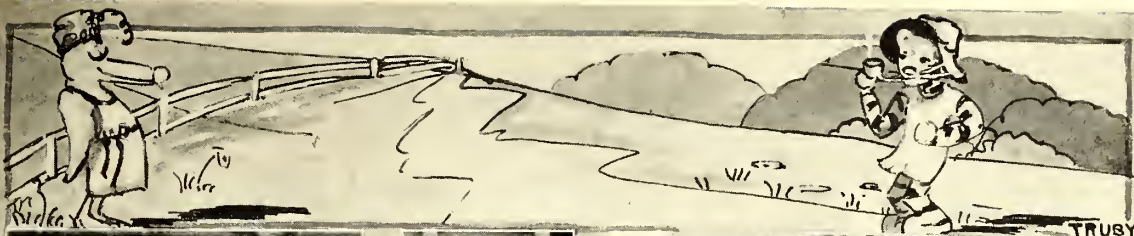

A day no one forgets—The all-College picnic held on Washington's Birthday at Seven Falls and the Broadmoor Golf Club, some of the ambitious ones try their luck at walking, the human totem pole posed by (reading down) McHendrie, Enyart, Hillhouse and Young, the pie-eating contest, a group and another group of those people who are conspicuous when the other is not present, and the juniors beat the seniors in a ball game.

A scene from the annual classical club play at Cossitt, La Fontaine, Smith, and Doc near Manitou diagonally from top down are taken from Pan Pan, Betty Morgan and "Tommy" Thomas, Truby and McHendrie, Burch and "The Monk," and a few of the members of the Riding Club stop in front of Bemis for a picture.

David Halliday Moffat

DAVID MOFFAT, banker, capitalist, and state builder, came to the Pikes Peak Region in the fall of 1859. In 1880 he was elected president of the First National Bank of Denver. His efforts built the railroad to Cheyenne to connect with the Union Pacific. He constructed the South Park line and the Florence & Cripple Creek Road. In 1885 he was elected president of the D. & R. G. R. R.

His greatest achievement was never completely realized. His dream was to place Denver on the transcontinental line, which should pierce the Rocky Mountains on an air line, establishing direct communication between Salt Lake and Denver. The completion, this year, of the Moffat Tunnel by the State of Colorado, has at last fulfilled his vision and given the state its greatest opportunity for future expansion.

Coach Telfer L. Mead came to Colorado College in 1921, from the Lincoln High School of Lincoln, Nebraska. Coach Mead is a graduate of the University of Indiana, where he was a three letter man in football and in basketball. Following his graduation, he immediately took charge of athletics in the Lincoln High School. He was coach there for four years, and during that time he turned out three championship basketball teams and two championship football teams. While at Colorado College he guided the Tigers to three championships in basketball, while his football teams were always contenders for the title. The basketball season of 1924-25 was the most successful for Coach Mead. At that time the Tigers defeated Brigham Young for the entire Rocky Mountain Championship. Since leaving Colorado College, Mr. Mead has located in Cleveland, Ohio, where he is engaged in the automobile business.

Coach Verne Collier

Coach Collier has complete charge of Freshman football in Colorado College. It is his job to start the molding of high school stars into varsity material. Coach Collier is a graduate of the Salina High School of Salina, Kansas, where he played four years of football. Following his graduation there, he attended the University of Kansas for two years, playing varsity football both years. He has been Freshman football coach at Colorado College for two years, and the Baby Bengals have shown some real football during this time. The Frosh can always be depended upon to give the Varsity some stiff competition as long as Coach Collier is in charge. The Yearlings are required to learn several different types of football during a season, and Coach Collier is very adept at teaching the men new plays.

VERNE COLLIER

Coach Van de Graaff

Coach "Bully" Van de Graaff came to Colorado College last fall to fill the vacancy left by Coach Mead. At that time his position was that of football coach, but at the close of the season he was made director of athletics at C. C. Coach Van de Graaff attended Alabama University for four years as student and football player. Following his graduation there, he coached a small school in Texas for a short time and then entered West Point. Graduating in 1918, he went direct into the army as a lieutenant in the infantry. Until last year he was stationed at Alabama University with the R. O. T. C. unit. While there he was coach of the frosh football team for three years, during which time they did not lose a game. Coach "Bully" is considered by football critics in the east as one of the best football coaches in the United States at the present time. Colorado College is indeed fortunate in having such a man in charge of its athletics.

WILLIAM VAN DE GRAAFF

Coach Alvin G. Twitchell

ALVIN TWITCHELL

Coach Twitchell came to C. C. in 1925 from Brigham Young University. He was head coach of baseball in 1925 and head coach of basketball in 1926. Coach Twitchell was a student and football player at Utah Agricultural College, playing three years of football while there. In 1916 he was chosen for All Rocky Mountain fullback and in 1917 All Rocky Mountain Conference tackle. While in school, he was a three letter man in track and in basketball. Upon his graduation, he attended the Illinois Coaching School and Rockne's Coaching School. Since that time he has coached nine years—four years in high school, four years at Brigham Young University, and one year at Colorado College. While at Brigham Young, Coach Twitchell turned out a championship basketball team two different years. This year being Coach Twitchell's tenth year in coaching, he celebrated by turning out the Eastern Division Champions of the Rocky Mountain Conference in basketball.

Graduate Manager of Athletics

JO E. IRISH

JO IRISH

For the first time in the history of the college, we have a graduate manager of athletics, and Jo Irish was selected for the job. Not only is Irish able to handle the financial end of athletics, but he is also coach of the Tiger track team this year. Irish comes to C. C. with an enviable record as a track athlete. While at Park Hill (Ill.) High School, Irish was a member of the track team that twice won the Chicago university national track meet, winning the broad jump and placing in the sprints. In his freshman year at the University of Illinois, he was captain of the freshman varsity track team. In 1916, the year that Irish would have made the Olympic team, there were no Olympics because of the war in Europe. Jo was chosen on the official all-American track team in 1917 as broad jumper. Among Coach Irish's best records are: broad jump, 24 feet; high jump, 6 feet; standing high jump, 5 feet 2¼ inches; 100 yard dash, 9 4/5 seconds. While Irish has been with us only a short time, he has made great strides in putting the athletics of the institution on a firm basis.

Review of 1926 Season

Capt. JORY

Starting out the year with a new coach, who had different coaching methods, it was the general opinion that the Tigers would not place very high in the race. At the end of the season the football critics were calling the Tigers, "the most feared team in the conference." Such a situation goes to show what a bunch of real men and a real coach can do. Coach Van de Graaff took charge of a group of mediocre material in September, and made them into the smoothest football machine ever seen in the Rocky Mountain Conference. The team started off slowly at first but it didn't take them very long to get the drift of Coach Van de Graaff's style of coaching. A new type of football was introduced into this conference and our standing at the end of the season shows the result. Our alumni tells us that the team had more fight and spirit than they had ever seen before. Losing only Spicer and Jory by graduation and having Clark and Williamson to fill their places, it looks like a championship for 1927.

The sketches in this section were created from photographs by Oliver Swan.

This was the Tigers first game of the season and their lack of polish could be plainly seen. The huddle system was used for the first time and seemed to work poorly and to slow up the game considerably. Fumbling and poor tackling were also very evident as they are in all first season games. Coach Van de Graaff, however, was able to pick the weak spots in his team and to build accordingly. In this game the left side of the line seemed to be weak, a fault which was corrected later. However, the Tigers did reveal defensive strength which improved as the season progressed. Beery showed well at end, tackling everything that came his way. J. Phelps was a good ground gainer in this game while Spicer seemed to have no trouble in picking holes in the line. Leggett, Roessner, Cecil, and Harrison did some good work in the line, making life miserable for the Western State linemen. The passing of the Tigers was poor, many of them being grounded or intercepted. The old fighting spirit was very evident at all times in all members of the team and Field Phelps started the season right by winning the game.

Colorado College gave Utah Aggies a great scare in this game. The Farmers of Logan, boasting the greatest collection of stars in the history of the school, were completely outplayed in the first three periods of the game. A touchdown in the last 7 minutes gave the game to Utah. The stubborn defense and the offensive drive of the Tigers was a big surprise to the Loganites. They expected to compete against a "second rate" eleven and were lucky in a large measure to record a touchdown advantage. Both teams, finding themselves unable to crash the line resorted to punting in the later stages of the game. According to one sports writer the Tigers exhibited a defense which was excelled only by the Rock of Gibraltar. Vandenberg, Phelps, and Bevan were the big stars in the Bengal backfield while Cecil and Jory showed well in the line.

Vande Graaff's charges entered the game the under dogs, yet they covered themselves with glory before the contest closed. In this game, against a team doped as one of the most powerful in the running, the Tigers showed the first real threat of being dangerous conference contenders.

Colorado Aggies 19

Colorado Aggies broke the old Tiger jinx by winning 19-6 on their own field. The Bengals outplayed them the first half but weakened in the third period. Aggies made all their scores in the third period. The Tigers started the ball rolling by scoring in the first five minutes of play. Leggett blocked an Aggie punt and Jory recovered for the Tigers. Line smashes by Vandenberg, and J. Phelps made first down and "Vandy" plowed across for the first score. Captain Jory, Cecil, and Leggett played great ball the first half, tearing thru the Aggie line time after time. The second half the Farmers got the jump and seemed impossible to stop. The solution seemed to be that the Bengal forward wall in the second half of the game waited to diagnose the play instead of charging thru, and as a result the Aggie backs got thru them for gains. Cecil was the outstanding line star of the game, getting thru the line so often that Coach Hughes took desperate methods to stop him. When he was stopped, the entire Tiger team was stopped. The Phelps brothers played a great game on the defensive, backing up the line where it seemed to be weak.

Starting the greatest game of the season with a play which almost resulted in a Tiger touchdown, until Lefty Herstrom intercepted a Boulder toss, the game showed a marked Tiger superiority. The Bengals had an edge in every department of the game. It was in the last few minutes of the second period that the Tigers found the road to victory. Bevan was sent in for Vandenberg. On the first play, Hall, F. Phelps, and J. Phelps started around right end, and of course the State line shifted over. When they did Bevan tore around left end for 32 yards and a touchdown. The backfield worked in unison in working this deceptive play which started Boulder's defeat. The second Tiger touchdown came thru line smashes by all members of the backfield, "Vandy" going over for the marker. The last score came thru a 35-yard pass thrown by "Fat" Phelps and received by "Frosty" Phelps. Jory, Osborne, and Leggett were the stars of the line. Osborne showing up well in getting down under punts. Vandenberg and J. Phelps were great ground-gainers while Field Phelps kicked all three points after touchdown. Spicer played a wonderful game being taken out exhausted in the third period.

Colorado College 26

Wyoming University 0

Wyoming pulled the fatal mistake of revealing all their tricks in the first part of the game, so that the Tigers knew just what to look for. At first they were successful and made several substantial gains but the Tigers soon heeded and stopped everything they started. The famous Cowboy backfield was unable to do much against the Tiger defense. J. Phelps played his usual steady game, backing up the line and making several nice gains thru line plunges. Vandenberg started things off in the third quarter by running 40 yards for the first touchdown. He was able to make this run thru beautiful interference by Hall. Cecil played a great game, tackling fine and following the ball so closely that he recovered three fumbles the first half. Captain Jory did some wonderful work in this game. In the last quarter he blocked a Cowboy punt, recovered and ran 25 yards for a touchdown. As usual Field Phelps gave the Tigers their lead by drop-kicking from the 35-yard line. The Tigers seemed to have the one yard jinx in this game, getting on Wyoming's one yard line several times only to be stopped. The Tiger offense in this game was by far the best seen in this conference up to this time.

Playing heads-up football, following the ball and being smarter all the way thru, the Tigers downed Denver University at the D. U. Stadium before a homecoming crowd, 16-7. Each team scored a touchdown on a forward pass, but it was the reliable toe of Field Phelps that proved to be the scoring edge which gave the Tigers the game. Phelps dropkicked three beautiful field goals. This same "Frosty" Phelps was also on the receiving end of the Tiger pass which accounted for the touchdown, and he added the extra point, which gave him credit for all the points scored by the Tigers. Denver showed only one real offensive drive during the whole game and that was at the end of the third period. The Pioneers took the ball on their own 40-yard line, and marched up to the Tiger 10-yard line, on the next play a pass gave Denver their only touchdown of the game. The Tiger ends, Sarcander and Osborne, played some real defensive football, turning the D. U. groundgainers on every play. These two Tigers deserve a lot of credit as they stopped the Denver backfield aces who were counted upon to bring victory. Vandenberg played great football until he was injured in the fourth period and was carried from the field. "Vandy" could carry the ball as well as run the team. He could hit the line, run the ends and was a demon at handling punts.

Colorado College 30
Colorado Mines 0

The Mines game was a fine example of the way to windup a very successful Tiger football season. The Tigers scored almost at will in this game, showing what Van de Graaff's coaching had done to mediocre material. "Fat" Phelps started the game off with a bang by grabbing the ball after a Miner had touched it on the first kickoff and running 50 yards thru the entire Mines team for a touchdown. In the second period Mines was forced to kick from behind their own goal line, the ball falling in Vandenberg's arms on the 10-yard line due to a strong wind, and "Vandy" carried it across the line for the second Tiger touchdown. Later in the period, after Mines had been forced to punt, Vandenberg took the ball on the first play from scrimmage and ran 20 yards for his second touchdown. Again, on the first play after the kickoff in the third period Spicer took the ball and circled the Tiger right end for 73-yards and a touchdown. After that the Miners braced and made 21 yards and two first downs, but the rally died out and shortly after "Spic" went over for the fifth Tiger touchdown. Coach Van de Graaff sent in a flock of subs in the final quarter to relieve the stars, but about the middle of the period J. Phelps intercepted a Miner pass and went across for the final touchdown. Spicer, Captain Jory, Boyd and Graham played their last game for C. C.

Freshman Football

The Varsity had some stiff competition in the freshman football team of this year. There were many high school stars who answered the call from Coach Collier. A good frosh team makes a good Varsity, and this season was a good example of that. Besides the scrimmage games, the Bengal Cubs engaged in two games with frosh from other schools in the conference.

On November 5 the Cubs tangled with the Boulder Frosh and came out with the small end of the score, 20-14. Clark made a spectacular run of 90 yards in the second period for the first touchdown. In the second half of the game, a pass, Clark to Cramer for 40 yards, gave the Baby Bengals their second touchdown.

On Armistice Day, under the auspices of the Colorado College Boosters Club, the Greeley Frosh team was brought to Colorado Springs. The Baby Tigers were themselves in this game and after some real football emerged from the fray with the big end of a 32-11 score. "Dutch" Clark made 26 points by himself in this game, while Cramer came across with the other touchdown. Williamson, Weaver, Moss, and Bell looked like Varsity material in the line, while Hoag did some great work in line plunges.

All of these men are returning next year and will be of great value in the race for the conference championship.

Montana State College Series

The Tigers, after winning the Eastern Division of the Rocky Mountain Conference, lost a three game series to Montana State College, champions of the Western Division for the championship of the Rocky Mountain Conference. "Dutch" Clark, playing better basketball than any man of either team led the Tigers to victory in the initial contest, 32-31. Thompson and Ward, scoring aces of the Montana team came to their own in the two remaining games and proved to be too much for the Tigers. Montana won the second game 29-17, and the third, 32-23. Ryan and Rhels proved to be the main cogs in keeping Montana's scores as low as they were.

Review of the Season

WHEN Coach Twitchell issued a call for basketball, about forty men reported for practice. Among these were five lettermen, Captain Ernie Simpson, George Simpson, Arlie Beery, J. Phelps, and C. Ryan. The new men to make the squad were "Dutch" Clark, All-American high school center, Johnson, Thierfelder, Wade, Gibbs, Seibt, and Lamberson. At the first of the season, Coach Twitchell started Captain Simpson and Clark at the forward positions, George Simpson at center, and Ryan and Phelps at guards. Later he placed "Hoddy" Johnson at forward with Captain Simpson, moved Clark to the pivot position, with Ryan and Phelps as guards.

The Tigers began their conference games with Western State College at Gunnison. In the two games of the doubleheader, the Tigers won 37-23 and 59-26.

Colorado Teachers College proved to be too much for the Bengals in the new Teacher's gym at Greeley, and turned them back, 26-23. The next week-end's games were played at home. Wyoming was beaten 30-18 in the first game. Simpson and Johnson starred in collecting points, while Clark gave a pretty exhibition in teamwork. The Tigers next broke away and defeated the D. U. Pioneers, 34-25.

The Tigers lost their second game of the season to Colorado University at Boulder, when they experienced an off night. The guarding of Waite and Beresford consistently stopped the Tiger offense. The final score was State, 19; Tigers, 15. Saturday night the Tigers had not come out of their slump, but were able to defeat the slow-breaking Mines team, 25-22.

Although but one game was played the next week-end, it proved to be a very successful one, for the Tigers regained the conference lead by defeating the Teachers. In the first game of their northern trip, the Tigers won an easy one over the Aggies, 49-23. In a comeback which swept the Wyoming Cowboys off their feet, the Tigers won, 32-27, the following night. A great rally in the closing minutes of the Denver game sewed it up, 33-27. The jinx of several years was broken when C. C. beat the Miners at Golden, 34-18.

Although victories over Teachers by Aggies and Wyoming had given the Tigers the Eastern Division championship for the fifth time in six years, C. C. sought revenge over Boulder in the closing game of the season. The Tigers won 23-15.

Captain Simpson, Clark, Johnson, Ryan, Phelps, Thierfelder, Beery, and G. Simpson finished the season with their letters.

The Athletic Committee of Colorado College is in full control of all finances relating to athletics in this school. The past football and basketball seasons have been a great success in respect to finance. The football season was able to pay for itself for the first time, and the basketball team was able to make a little surplus over and above expenses.

The Athletic Committee is represented in the Rocky Mountain Conference by Professor R. J. Gilmore. At the last meeting of this association the following new rules were enacted; that football practice should be limited to two hours a day, that no training tables should be allowed, that only three years of varsity football should be permitted any man, and that an athlete changing from one school in this conference to another would be required to attend two years before participating in football.

The first games were played against Mines at Golden. The first of the double-header was won by Mines, 10-9. Captain Spicer starred at the plate and Herstrom brought the crowds to their feet by several sensational catches in the field. The second game was taken by the Tigers, 13-6.

The second series of games was played with Colorado Teachers College. The Pedagogues won both games, the first, 8-6, and the second, 10-9. MacAllister pitched the first game for the Tigers and held the Teachers to a limited amount of hits. Herstrom, Bowes, and Spicer, who starred at the bat for the Tigers, could not bunch their hits enough to win the game. Denver University lowered the Bengal percentage a couple of notches in a double-header played at Broadway Park. Pete Howells, Denver pitcher, hurled the Pioneers to a 6-1 victory in the first game, and relieved Jacobs in the second game when the Bengal began pounding him all over the lot. Crowder, Gallo, Spicer, Herstrom, and Hall starred for the Tigers in these games.

The Tigers then journeyed to Ft. Collins and broke even in two games with the Colorado Agricultural College. Quick starred on the mound in the first game when he held the Aggies to six hits. The Tigers won 8-1. The Farmers reversed their form in the second game and won 11-1.

The Tigers finished their season against Colorado University at Broadway Park. The Bengals won the first game 9-6. The team showed its best form of the season in this game. The Saturday game was won 8-7 by the State team.

Prospects for a good track team at Colorado College did not look so bright when Coach Mead called the cinder men at the first of the season. Due to the small number of men at C. C., it is very difficult to have enough material in school to win much in a large meet. O'Neal, tying the Conference record holder for the century at Denver in the triangular meet, and Sarcander, Conference record holder in the pole vault, were the only men to score at the Conference Meet.

The University of Colorado Relay Carnival was the first meet that the Tigers engaged in. Colorado College placed seventh in the relays and fourth in the special events. Sarcander vaulted twelve feet for first place in the pole vault. Captain Kimmel, Gormley, Todd, O'Neal, Ebinger, Cox, Ryan and Sarcander made the trip.

In the next meet C. C. was able to collect 25 points in a triangular meet at Denver between Denver University, Colorado University, and Colorado College.

State won with $80\frac{1}{2}$ points and Denver came second with $57\frac{1}{2}$ points. Sarcander won first in the pole vault with a leap of 12 feet 4 inches and third in the high jump. O'Neal equalled the Conference in the 100 yard dash when he ran it in $9\frac{1}{3}$ seconds. He and Gormley placed second and third respectively in the 220. Bill Rogers came in second in the two mile after a close race.

Vandenberg won the low hurdles, placed second in the high hurdles and third in the pole vault. Ryan won the 440 while Captain Kimmel placed second in this event. Gormley won the 220, placed second in the century and third in the high jump. Forrest Phelps won the discus and placed second in the shot put. O'Neal placed first in the 100 and second in the 220 yard dashes. Schisler and Eastwood placed second respectively in the half mile and broad jump events. C. C. won the mile relay to complete the day.

The conference meet was held at Boulder, May 22. Utah Aggies won with $42\frac{3}{4}$ points, Utah University second with $39\frac{1}{4}$. The Tigers scored $6\frac{1}{3}$ points and placed eight in the final standing. Sarcander broke the conference record in the pole vault when he cleared 12 feet $4\frac{1}{2}$ inches. New records were also established in the mile relay, low hurdles, high hurdles, half mile, and the broad jump. O'Neal placed second in the 100 yard dash to complete the scoring for the Tigers.

STARTING the season with three letter men, Moses, Weimer and Lee, and a wealth of new material, the Bengal tennis team soon took form of a strong net team.

The first game was with the University of Colorado team. The Tigers upset the dope and broke even with the State team in number of matches won and lost. In the doubles, Simpson and Scribner won their match, while Capt. Lewis and Lee lost. In the singles Bender and Capt. Lewis lost and E. Simpson and Lee took the C. U. men to a cleaning.

The second match was played on the Quackenbush courts in Monument Park, between the Tigers and Colorado Teachers College. The Tigers won 4-2. In the doubles, Moses and Weimer won their match, but E. Simpson and Scribner lost. In the singles, Lewis, Lee and Simpson downed their opponents, but Scribner lost his match to Leehan.

The Tigers then journeyed to the conference meet in Boulder. The Bengals were eliminated in the first day's play, when Moses and Lewis lost to Gallacher and Blewins, Utah, 2-6, 2-6; Scribner and Simpson lost to Godell and Irvine, Utah, 5-7, 4-6. Milstien, Colorado University, won from E. Simpson, 6-8, 6-0, 6-2. Utah University won the conference championship in the next days of play, for the second consecutive year.

Capt. Lewis, Bob Moses, M. Weimer, E. Simpson, B. Scribner, and Lee won their letters in this sport.

Golf

THE 1926 Tiger Golf Team won the only Conference championship of the year, when they decisively won the Conference Golf meet held at the famous Broadmoor Course, May 28-29.

The team composed of No. 1, Capt. Seibt; No. 2, Bohasseck; No. 3, F. Phelps; No. 4, Broyles; and No. 5, Armstrong, amassed 21 points to $12\frac{1}{2}$ of Denver University who came second and $11\frac{1}{2}$ points of Colorado University who came third. Nearly all of the cups and prizes for individual play were won by Tiger players.

Earlier in the season the Tee and Fairway Boys engages in two Triangular meets. The first was held May 8, over the Lakewood Country Club course in Denver, between C. C., C. U., and D. U. Capt. Seibt, Bohasseck, F. Phelps, Broyles, and Armstrong made the trip and collected $23\frac{1}{2}$ points out of a possible 30, while Colorado University took second with $16\frac{1}{2}$. Denver University scored 5 points.

The second Triangular meet was played over the Denver Country Club course, May 15, between the same schools. The Tigers won again, scoring $19\frac{1}{2}$ points. D. U. came second with 14, while C. U. came last with $11\frac{1}{2}$. Capt. Seibt, Bohasseck, F. Phelps, Broyles, and Killian made this trip.

Interfraternity Track

PHI GAMMA DELTA won the 1926 interfraternity track championship in a closely contested two-day meet held in Monument Park. By taking both relay events, the Fijis were able to nose out the Phi Delt who came a close second. When the final scores were added up the Phi Gams had collected 45 points and the Phi Delt, 40.

O'Neal, Phi Delt, won the 100 and 220 yard dashes in very fast time. Sarcander, Phi Gam, who later broke the Rocky Mountain Conference pole vault record in the conference meet in Boulder, did not have to exert himself to win this event. He also scored points in the discus, relays, and high jump. Bill Rogers, Phi Delt, won the mile and two-mile events. Capt. Kimmel, Phi Gam took the 440 yard dash and half-mile, but was pushed by Moses, Pi K. A. and Ryan, Phi Gam.

This meet not only decided the campus championship, but from the results of the meet, the coaches selected a team to compete in the University of Colorado relay carnival at Boulder the following week-end.

Interfraternity Baseball

INTRAMURAL baseball, otherwise known as the Six A. M. Baseball league, was not as successful as in former years. Washburn Field, where the games were usually played was being torn up for the construction of the new stadium and the games had to be played in Monument Park. The teams were again divided into two leagues. The American league consisted of Pi Kappa Alpha, Beta Theta Pi, Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Chi. The National league consisted of Phi Gamma Delta, Kappa Sigma, Delta Alpha Phi and the Independents. A schedule was made out and several games played, but a championship was never decided.

Interfraternity Basketball

INTERFRATERNITY basketball at Colorado College means hard fought battles of rough basketball. The tournament was run off in round robbin fashion. Games were played each Tuesday and Thursday nights and an admission charge of ten cents was made, which greatly helped to finance baseball and golf.

WOMEN

MISS DAVIS

MISS WARNER

Eleanor Davis

Miss Eleanor S. Davis has held the position of Director of Physical Education for Women at Colorado College for the past twelve years. In preparation for the work, she was graduated from the Boston Normal School of Gymnastics and, in addition, completed an extensive course of study in the department of Hygiene at Wellesley College. Her long training and natural ability for the position have proved valuable aids in promoting girls' athletics at C. C.

Marion Warner

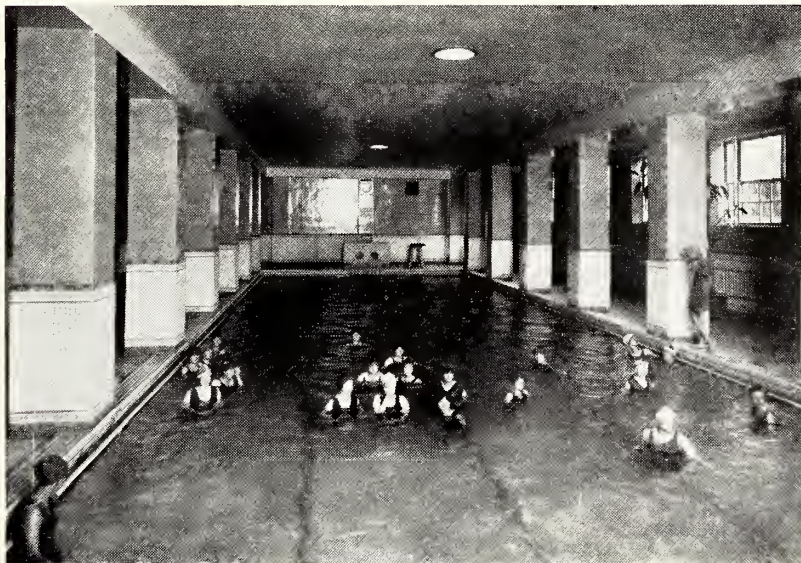

Miss Marion Warner has served as assistant to Miss Davis during the school year, 1926-1927. She was graduated from Connecticut College for Women, where she received her B.S. degree. Some time later she attended Wellesley College, where she was granted the degree of M. A. Her active interest in a long list of sports fit her well for the position of assistant director.

Women's Athletics

The point system is used to instill enthusiasm and further interest in sports. For earning 250 points a student gains her class numerals and for 500 points the W.A.A. pin is given. When 750 points have been accumulated the student is awarded a C.C. pillow top. A C.C. sweater is presented to the lucky possessor of 1000 points. These points are gained by observing training rules, taking places in meets, and extra gymnasium work.

So far this year numerals are to be awarded to Barbara Potter, Winifred Bull, Dorothy MacDougall, Sarah Howells, and Madaleine Warner.

Mary Morse is in line for a C.C. pillow top and Lois Cooper for a W.A.A. pin.

The Women's Athletic Association directs all athletic activities in Colorado College by being organized along competitive lines. Each year the executive board and heads of sports are elected.

The chief items on the athletic calendar are: Swimming Meet, Basketball Spread, Rodeo, May Festival, Gymnastic Meet, Organized Hikes, the All-Day Hike at the end of the season, Tennis Tournament, and the Inter-Class Games in all team sports.

Mahlon D. Thatcher

MAHLON D. THATCHER came to Colorado in 1865 from Pennsylvania, and located in Pueblo with his brother where they owned a store. He was known as a merchant and a banker. His financial career began when he was first employed in the First National Bank of Pueblo. From this time on he began to organize a banking system which was state wide. He was influential in such enterprises as the Pueblo Union Depot & R. R. Co., American Smelting & Refining Co., Great Western Sugar Co., Standard Fire Brick Co., Cement Securities Co., and Nevada-California Electric Corp. However, his interests in coal and metal mines, cattle and beet sugar seemed to be the most important. Mr. Thatcher was known throughout the state as a banker who controlled successfully many critical periods. He was noted for his fairness in business and helpful attitude toward competitors.

The Intersociety Council is composed of representatives from each of the girls societies and one from the Student Government Organization.

In addition to its power to change and regulate the rules of the organizations, its principal function lies in the governing and directing of the election of new members to the four societies. It is customary for the Student Government representative to serve as president of the council.

Believing that there was a need in the college for a women's forensic organization, a group of girls founded Athenian Debating Society in 1919. Through this group forensic activity has been carried on and encouraged, so that now women's debating in Colorado College is at a high standard.

Euterpe had a predecessor named Pierian, which became infected with the sorority bug. Sororities had not the approval of Colorado College. Pierian it was suggested, might physic the bug or else adorn a page of history. It chose the latter, and after decent burial and a befitting season of mourning, a new society was organized which promises to live longer.

Affiliation may take place later with one of the national groups and Euterpe share vitally in the future of music.

The Colorado College Riding Club was organized in the spring of 1923, and held its first Rodeo on May 12 of that year. The regular spring meet has been a feature fostered by the club ever since, and has proved a very fascinating part of the work. Regular riding classes offered by Miss Davis for beginners have been the basis for riding in C. C. The riding club has attempted to go a little beyond this in constituting itself the honorary and advanced group toward which these riders strive. In the last year the prerequisite for membership has been raised; and contrary to former practice beginners are not considered members of the club but must first rise to the rank of intermediate riders when they are automatically made members of the club.

The Y. M. C. A. is an association of young men banded together to promote Christian living and to apply Christian principles to social and political problems.

An important activity of the organization this year was the maintaining of a social and recreation room in the basement of Hagerman Hall. Students may pass their spare time here pleasantly reading, playing pool or chess, and singing.

A prominent part of the Y. M. C. A. work is promoting discussion through such groups as the International Relations Club and through unusual speakers of which there have been several this year.

Moses Hallett

MOSES HALLETT, jurist during the territorial period and after Colorado became a state. Probably no western jurist has exerted a greater influence in mining jurisprudence than Judge Hallett. He served as Chief Justice of the Territory of Colorado in 1866, was reappointed by President Grant to the Territorial Supreme Court until Colorado became a state. President Grant appointed Judge Hallett to the U. S. District Court for Colorado, a position he filled until he retired in 1906.

During a later period of his life, in addition to attending to his large private interest, he was executor and trustee of the estate of George W. Clayton, who left a large fortune for the establishment of the George W. Clayton College for orphan boys, which was in a few years turned over to the city of Denver.

Broadmoor is Colorado's choicest year-round playground

Sincere appreciation is the first and most lasting reaction when your invitation reads: "At the Broadmoor." For the guest is quick to sense that refinement of service which cares for him as our guest as well as yours.

Fraternities and Sororities ever have looked with favor upon this remarkable hotel when planning Colorado College functions, borrowing freely of its prestige, delighting in its adroit way of meeting difficult tasks.

Our appreciation of this fact will continue to be shown by the measure of service given.

Make it your special duty to complain if your CAT is not delivered regularly and satisfactorily. Five dollars in cash will be paid for evidence leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone caught stealing Cats from subscribers' home or from our wagons.

Don't hesitate to call up Mr. Albert Bevan.

Yesterday the circulation of your CAT was over 250,000 which was over 30 times as great as the foreign owned paper. Statistics also show the CAT excelled this other paper in every department. Why not co-operate with us and help us make bigger and better CATS and don't forget the CAT IS YOUR BIG BROTHER.

KOEDS KIDNAP KATTY KLASSMATE

BY ASSOCIATED DISTRESS

The kidnapping business is becoming quite prosperous and prevalent among some of our more "popular" C. C. Coeds according to a statement made to our international correspondent by Chief H. D. Harper this morning. The girl bandits, it seems, dress in slickers and masks and pick up all unsuspecting fair rivals that they meet anywhere between Bemis and Cutler. They then gag and bind them and take them out in the woods where they threaten them with cruel stories of long walks and blackmail. The leader of the "gang" is said to speak Spanish fluently and wears an Indian ring, that is, did wear an Indian ring.

Friends of both parties concerned say that jealousy was responsible for this sudden outburst of feminine ferocity. It is rumored that there is in this, as in all other similar affairs, the eternal triangle.

(The End)

Colorado College Academy of Wrestling

(606 Character Building)

San Luis School, conducted under the auspices of the Colorado Springs Police department has proved a very valuable asset in producing athletes at Colorado College as only the stronger and less nervous boys may survive.

Notwithstanding the misconception that the co-eds are not allowed, it is to be noticed that many of our fair damsels have made themselves quite conspicuous in this body building sport.

We would like to call to the reader's attention the following testimonials:

"Dutch" Clark, all-high school toe dancer, says, "I have developed my famous wind mill glide and owe my entire muscular and physical development to San Luis and will prove my statement by allowing any skeptic to feel my muscle."

"Ten Pin" Bevan, veteran alley grappler, joins "Three minute" Harrison in approving of the smoothness and tact employed at San Luis.

"Whispering" Johnson, ex-Bull tosser from the big three, Swink, Fountain and Kelker, has achieved great success after his first ten lessons. For once he is at loss to voice his opinion.

Captain Sarcander, stellar pole vaulter, although not of wrestling fame, since training at San Luis clears the bar at a height which is no longer a matter of inches.

BETAS ESTABLISH PURITANICAL LEAGUE

A branch of the Puritanical League of America has been established at Colorado College with headquarters at the Beta Theta Pi fraternity house. Action was taken after it was discovered that a member of this fraternity had placed his pin out on a girl in a state reformatory. The exact officers of this local branch are not known, but it is understood that all of the members are co-operating in the program for pure, unpolluted manhood. Campaigns have been launched over the campus to bring other fraternities and societies into the fold. Late last night the Phi Gams were on the fence. It was expected that they would hit the sawdust trail before morning.

This is the first time that such a wholesome wave has been felt at Colorado College. Much is expected to develop therefrom. Already fraternity dances have been abolished, and it is rumored that the Betas are serving Sinton's Special at their regular Monday night gatherings. The Sigma Chis, because of this influence, have ordered a crate of Sunkist lemons and are preparing for a hot season.

In this way all of the men are falling in line, and by their examples and delegations are winning over the girls to the ideal of pure, sweet, womanhood. With Hypatia there was no difficulty, but the other societies seem to kick over the traces.

The faculty is up in arms over the situation. They refuse to change their standards to conform to those of the students. One faculty member remarked yesterday that it was a shame that the students were always taking the joy out of life. But they are helpless before such a wave of goodness and light.

"Have ordered a crate of Sunkist lemons for Sigma Chi."

A TIRED BUSINESS MAN

A tired business man stalked home to his wife and child. He found his wife in the bed room. She told him not to go into the bath, so, of course he did. And what did he see? He saw a gentleman sitting in the bath tub quite nude except for a silk hat which he tipped gracefully saying, "Believe me or not, sir, but I'm waiting for a taxi."

Did the tired business man shoot the gentleman in the bath tub? Of course not, dear reader, it was his poor demented brother-in-law.

"Why don't the devil skate?"
"How in hell can he?"

The janitor had to be called in to take the fourth hand Monday when Mr. Hale could not find one of the golf soxs he had scheduled to wear that day. "I've been robbed" he told a Cat reporter, "and of course I could not wear another pair, for that would throw the whole plan off—one which took me weeks to perfect."

Mr. Robert Snyder, late of the Romance Language department is leaving for Harvard soon where he will do some advanced work.

PLEA FOR A PRETTY CAMPUS

Let's make our campus beautiful. I have put over every big thing in this school so far. I am responsible for smoking on the campus. I have decided that the College must be made a bigger, grander, prettier place. I want all those who don't know anything about anything, to stand behind me in this campaign and vote as I vote, for I will vote correctly. I always pick the winners and vote accordingly, so I'm pleading, begging, asking all of you who are new here (or might as well be) to follow my advice. Vote for a campus beautiful. Here's to bigger and better dandelions.

The Editor has heard some rather strong language used in connection with the "Pretty Campus" ticket which he offered to the unattached (and not attached) students in today's issue. It is to be expected under the peculiar circumstances, yet those who have confidence in him and the general cat policy realize that it is a very strong argument. Everyone has his own opinion and is entitled to it.

Why can't we dig out the worst dandelions from our nice campus, leaving only the prettiest and yellowest ones?

"Pleas for a Pretty Campus."

Years ago the spirit of the College was not so careless. The students took an interest in campus appearances and campus policies. How long has it been since any one has cared enough to decorate our grounds with stuffed birds, animals and flowers. How long—ye Gods—how long, will such things be ignored?

Vote and vote today. Please co-operate with your editor in this and you can't go wrong.

Pretty please—I thank you.

"Catch me, Clarence, I'm so dizzy."

"Wassamatter?"

"I've been readin' a circular letter."

BASEBALL CLUB

Once upon a time, way back in the gay nineties, C. C. had a championship baseball team. These jolly boys, pictured at the side, victoriously led our school thru one merry victory after another—for two whole years they did this, until the faculty couldn't stand it any longer. So this nonchalant nine agreed to stop winning championships—and being trusty lads, they have never even unto this day, broken their sacred pledge.

SERVICE

You buy gas at the burner and electricity at the switch.

Our service produces gas or electricity and delivers it to you, ready for use any hour of the day or night.

We build and maintain the plants necessary, lay the mains, construct transmission and distribution lines, to provide service upon your demand.

When you want to use either of these commodities you require instant service, without limitation of its use.

In providing the plant and equipment, we must likewise add to this investment the cost of being constantly ready to serve you any minute of the twenty-four hours, under any and all conditions. Being ready to serve you instantly is one of the elements in the total cost of making gas and electricity available for your use.
